

“Estimating For LEED®”

Presented By:
Nick Pera, LEED® AP and Mark Kobey, LEED® AP
Of
Rudolph and Sletten, Inc.
General and Engineering Contractors

This seminar is an overview of the LEED® system and its relationship to the General Contractors role on a project. Nick and Mark will review strategies for LEED® in the estimating and pre-construction phases, along with the documentation requirements and costs for general contractors and subcontractors that are essential to preparing the final LEED® submission.

Mr. Pera is a Pre-construction Executive with Rudolph and Sletten and has been with the firm since 1995. Notable projects Mr. Pera has worked on include Lucas Film Big Rock Ranch, Microsoft’s Silicon Valley Campus, and Chiron’s Life Science Center. Mr. Pera also managed the pre-construction and LEED® Gold Certification for Rudolph and Sletten’s Redwood City Headquarters and spearheaded the company wide LEED® education program that resulted in over 100 team members becoming LEED® Accredited Professionals. Mr. Pera graduated with a B.S in Civil Engineering from Santa Clara University where he currently teaches a Construction Engineering Course.

Mark Kobey is a Cost Engineer with Rudolph and Sletten and has been with the firm since 2005. A LEED® Accredited Professional, Mark was responsible for preparing the final submission for the LEED® Gold rating on Rudolph and Sletten’s Corporate Headquarters project. Mark graduated from Colorado State University with a B.S in Construction Management.
